Seen, Heard and Told

I hope the grand scheme of collaboration between the city authorities and the army authorities with reference to curtailing the gypers and the gutters has started to work. When I get back, I intend to publish some of the letters received on the subject.

Damned if there are many sweet ones over here. Most of them look like they have been eating green persimmons sprinkled with alum.

They are strict on law enforcement here. A man who checked out of a stud poker game just before midnight Sunday, told me that he had to wait until one-half a second past midnight to buy a beer. The poker game had been in full blast probably all day.

Max Yeager, with whom I share a room, has been taking care of the religious duties of our side. He had the best intentions of going to church Sunday, and had started to church, but paused to listen to the Salvation Army. It did not take much questtioning to find out that there were some good looking gals in the band—not, of course, that that had anything to do with it. I am going to attend the next meeting for the sight of a good looker—like some of my favorites—would be better than some of this mineral water to tone up the morale and make the blood surge about in the body.

This is being written while my breakfast is being digested, pending taking a bath. I never bathed so much in my life.

I heard several good jokes while here, but they are too tame for the GCW.

I heard that the directors of the bank gave Mr. and Mrs. Henry Ray a vacation here at H. S., but Henry thought the bank could not run without him, just like I felt about the GCW; but the GCW is still percolating and the Trust Bank would be too.

I have not taken a drink while here. I have led a good life, except for shooting a few craps and paying a little "peep-under". I sleep about 40 percent of the time and sit or lie down 50 percent.

It does not look like rationing has been heard of over here. At the Enox Hotel, where we stay, we have meat 20 meals a week. They lay off serving meats Sunday night. I recommend this hotel except to the big shots. Home cooked meats, as much as you want. They are losing money on Max Yeager, I know.

Some "Cigar Stores" here NEVER close. There must be a great demand for cigars. One proprietor told me they did not have a lock on the door.

You fellows who are kicking about $3.00 licker should come here and see a pint of Old Taylor priced at $10.34.

I think the Mississippi and Alabama bootleggers—both "dry" states—buy all of the Arkansas licker.

You delinquents had better pay up while I am away, for I am going to give our mailing list a big dose of calomel when I get back.

This is the crookedest town I ever saw. I have not seen a right angle yet.

I was talking to a man who claimed to know his stuff—and I believe him—and he said that this senseless optimism concerning the war is absurd, that we can LOSE the war if we relax. Germany and Japan are still terribly strong, he said.

I hear that Dr. and Mrs. Avent are due here today (Monday).

I wish I could see my favorite wife. A wife is a fine institution.

They call them "kitties" around these poker games, but they look like overgrown tom cats to me.

Two railroads enter this town, but none goes thru it. "End of Steel" is Hot Springs.

I certainly hope you all have been keeping Horn out of devilment, for it costs cash money to stay here.

With all this "carrying on" here, there is good order. I have not seen a drunk yet.

Much obliged to favorite correspondent (whose heart now seems mended) for helping the only lady out.

Lady Byron should write a poem on gypers and gutters.

Oh, yes, watch that bread and potatoes!!

Gore Spring H. D. Club Entertians Husbands

(By Mrs. Sam Gillon)

On Thursday night at 7 o'clock the members of the Home Demonstration Club of Gore Springs entertained their husbands with a banquet in the High School auditorium. Ghests were met by Miss Loraine Hardin who presented the ladies with buttonaires to pin on the lapel of their husband's coat. Large bows of yellow chrysantemums andh blue fall asters with fern decorated the piano and stage. Ivy leaves and red berries adorned the center of the three long white tables added much to the beauty of them. The Club president, Mrs. Gene Gillon (who donated the twenty-pound turkey for the occasion) sat at the head of the center table. To her right sat Mrs. Velma Neely, Home Demonstration Agent and her guest, Mrs. Mary Ellen Prinz. The seventy-five place cards were in the form of Thanksgiving booklets with the menu, names of guests and recreation program printed inside. During the meal Mrs. Ann Hankins sang Paper Dolls and She's From Missiori. Bobby Gene Gillon, dressed in negro costume, sang Darkness on the Delta and Pistol Packin' Mamm, (the latter by special request.) Mrs. Griffis Shaw accompanied the soloists at the piano. The menu consisted of turkey, dressing, gravy, cranberry sauce, celery, pickles, potato salad, fruit salad on lettuce, sweet potatoes with marshmallows, coffee, cake and fruit.

Martha Grace Chamberlain, Mary Tucker, Dixie Trusty, Jeanneane Tyner, and Joy Gillon, home economic students, served the guests. They served under the supervision of their teacher, Miss Virginia Smith. After several "round the table" games were enjoyed recreational leader, Mrs. W. T. York and Mrs. Sam Gillon conducted a Who's Who contest for men, with only ladies voting. The following were chosen:

Best looking, Fred Tyner; most handsome, O. D. Spratlin; biggest eater, Jim Moore; most comical, Martin Trussell; best wife caller, W. T. York; best singer, Sam Gillon; biggest feet, Henry Willis; neatest monkey, George Chamberlain; best athlete, Roy Chamberlain; best club member, Guy James; best al round citizen, F. E. Gillon;; most polite, Mr. Hitt.

Invited guests present were Mr. and Mrs. O. D. Spratlin, Grenada, Mr. and Mrs. Griffis Shaw, and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Willis.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Ray accompanied by Leroy Trussel, visited Mrs. Ray's parents in Cedar Bluff on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Gillon and family spent the week end in Minter City as guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Gillon. On Saturday night, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Gillon and Rayford Gillon, Jr., they visited Rev. and Mrs. Wm. S. Hardin in Drew.

Sunday morning about six o'clock the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Ray burned. Mr. and Mrs. Ray were dressing when they smelled smoke and on entering the kitchen found the ceiling falling in. Neighbors quickly reached the scene but saved only a few articles. Both Mr. and Mrs. Ray received burns. The house was partially covered by insurance, but the furnishings were a total loss. Mr. and Mrs. Ray are highly respected by the people in Gore Springs community, who share with them their misfortune.

Mr. B. F. Burleyson of Beat Five, Died Nov. 8th

Mr. B. F. Burleyson, resident of Beat Five, Grenada County, died at his home 6 miles south of Holcomb, on Monday, November 8, 1943 and services were conducted at Pisgah Church, November 9th at 11 a. m. the Rev. Jumper of Holcomb, pastor of the Methodist Church, officiated. Burial was in the church cemetery at 12 o'clock and Williams Funeral Home, of Greenwood was in charge of burial.

Mr. Burleyson was 73 years of age. He was born in Quitman County, Mississippi on April 5th, 1870. In August of 1903 he and Miss Bertha Bell were married. Three daughters and one son, besides the widow survive, also one sister. The daughters are Mrs. C. I. Childs, of Grenada; Mrs. Wade Williams, of Memphis; and Mrs. Bill Meadows, of Maysville; one son, Sgt. James B. Burleyson, of Army Air Base at San Angelo, Texas; one sister, Mrs. J. M. Pierce, of Holcomb.

Mr. Burleyson, who was a farmer, was active up to this sudden illness. He was stricken several days before his death while in a pasture, and lay most of the day calling for help.

He sustained a stroke from which he never rallied. His family was at his bedside when death came.

He was a life long member of the Methodist Church, and a man known as a good neighbor and upright citizen.

Our sympathy is extended to those who mourn his loss.

Schools Asked To Release Students Dec. 15th

Adjustments of college and preparatory school Christmas vacation periods to eliminate travel by students to and from their homes during the height of the peak holiday traffic movement was requested today by the Office of Defense Transportation.

ODT officials pointed out that earlier closing and later opening of schools and colleges would help materially to smooth out the holiday traffic peak on heavily taxed railroad and intercity bus lines. Reduction of the traffic peak was necessary, they said, to prevent interference with movement of the present heavy volume of military and essential civilian travel.

The ODT asked college and school authorities to adopt one of the following alternative vacation schedules, preferably the first:

1. Release students not later than December 15 and not require them to return before January 11.

2. If so long a vacation cannot be permitted, either begin the vacation period by December 15 or end it on or after January 11, fixing mid-week dates for both release and return of students.

Officials at ODT observed that while many students at colleges now were enrolled in Army and Navy training courses, and subject to Army or Navy regulations respecting Christmas leave, there were still many civilian students. The ODT request applied to the vacations of the civilian students at both colleges and preparatory schools. Full assurances have been received from the armed forces that Christmas furoughs for training school students will be minimize this year.

HOSPITAL NOTES

The many friends of Miss Lida Coffman are sorrowful over her very critical illness at the Grenada Hospital.

Others critically ill are Mr. John George, of Grenada, and Mrs. Dick Fox, of Duck Hill.

Mrs. Lynn Dunavant Pollard Died

Grenada friends learned with sorrow of the passing of Mrs. R. B. Pollard on Saturday, November 13th at her home at Whitehaven, Tenn. Mrs. John Keeton, with whom she lived, during her period of residence in Grenada, was with her to the last. Mrs. Keeton returned home Sunday afternoon after the funeral services, with Mr. Keeton who had gone to Whitehaven early Sunday morning.

Mrs. Pollard was stricken early in September with leukemia and altho everything possible was done for her by her adoring family and her doctors, she was unable to overcome the disease.

Mrs. Pollard was connected with Grenada Clinic as technician for years, and had many friends here. She is survived by her husband and two young sons, Jack, age 11 and Ray, Jr., age 6.

Mrs. Keeton had been at her bedside most of the time for two months, and returned to Whitehaven on Tuesday of this week to comfort and assist Mr. Pollard and the two boys as they try to readjust their lives to their loneliness and grief for their devoted wife and mother.

Finds Dad's Car

Last week Mr. Walter Garner reported the theft of his car from his home on Union Street in Grenada to the police, the Highway Patrole, also officers in other towns and cities were told to be on the lookout for the car. It so happened that about that time Walter Garner, Jr., age 7 years visited his young friend, Cas Heath, III, one afternoon and in returning home came a round about way, as boys so often do. He found his dad's car, unharmed, over behind an old building, near the end of 4th Street and close to the I. C. R. R. tracks.

His father now thinks he has a junior "F. B. I. man" in his family.

COTTON GINNING REPORT

Census report shows that 9,917 bales of cotton were ginned in Grenada County from the crop of 1943 prior to November 1, 1943 as compared with 9,028 bales for the crop of 1942.

THROUGH A WOMAN'S EYE

By Mrs. [illegible] W. Whitaker

EDITOR'S NOTE: Several articles ready for the press will be carried over for next week's edition as a nice large ad came in to be run on Nov. 18.

Editor Whitaker, at Hot Springs, Ark., writes, "Max Yeager, who is here at Hot Springs, has walked all over these d—— mountains; so far I have not walked a mile." Also Whyte says, "I may roll in home any time now."

Saturday night we had a very destructive fire in the very heart of uptown Grenada, when J. B. Horn's cotton office was practically destroyed by a fire of undetermined origin. Last year's records and the office equipment were lost, (however, Mr. Horn saved this year's cotton records). The space his desk occupied, burned through into the lower floor occupied by Jordan's grocery store. Their large plate glass window was smashed and part of the stock was water damaged.

NEGROES SHOOT IT OUT

Over on the "Peavine" near Grenada Oil Mill, two "pistol packing" negroes shot each other over the outcome of a crap game Saturday night.

Marshal Odom stated that they found only one pistol, however it's probable two guns were used. Both negroes received surgical care at Grenada Hospital and were placed in the same hospital room.

The two negroes are Hallie Rickett, age 32, and Dorsey Buck, age 28, Both Grenada negroes. Rickett was shot through the stomach and several intestines were severed. Buck was shot in the groin.

Southern officers have never worried much over negroes shooting dice, yet when a negro goes to a crap game, carrying with him a loaded pistol, there's an element of danger not to be ignored. Since writing the above we were notified that Hallie Rickett, shot through intestinal tract, died at 10:45 o'clock Monday night.

HAVE A HEART, LADY!

On Monday of this week, two young ladies, whose husbands are at the Grenada Air Base, came to our office seeking a room, as they had to move by 10 o'clock Tuesday.

They were occupying the same room in a local rooming house and stated they were paying $5.00 a day for the room. Looks like the army is going to have to do something about rent profiteers in Grenada.

Annual Thankgiving Service

The Thanksgiving service this year will be held in the Methodist Church on Thursday morning, November 24, at eleven o'clock. This is to be a union service. The Rev. C. A. Pharr, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, will preach the sermon. Special music will be given by the choir. There are many reasons why we should meet on Thanksgiving Day and offer our thanks to God. We hope you will meet with us on this Thanksgiving Day and unite with us as we worship the Giver of every good and perfect gift.

Some Pre-Pearl Fathers To Be Called

Every local selective service board in Mississippi is authorized to and will induct some pre-Pearl Harbor fathers during November. Local selective service boards were authorized, nationally, to begin October 1, 1943, the induction of pre-Pearl Harbor fathers in order to meet the demands of the armed forces and to continue production. Mississippi was one of the few states which was able to supply men until November 1st without induction of these fathers. The fine work done by local selective service boards in Mississippi has permitted this state to go one month longer before induction of fathers than the majority of the states, so Mississippi boards will call fathers this month.

Good Colored Woman Dies

Lizzie Merritt, life long citizen of Grenada, died at the home of her daughter, Sam Ida Berry, in Carbondale, Ill., on November 4, 1943.

This good colored woman, who has nursed in many homes in Grenada, was born in Valden, moved to Grenada when a child. Her body reached Grenada Wednesday night and followng services at Church of God in Christ, burial was held in Masons cemetery on Thursday afternoon.

Things Of Paramount Importance to Landlords

"There are several things of paramount importance that a landlord should know in handling this dwelling rental property under the rent program," according to Powell S. Hall, Area Rent Director.

"Among the things that a landlord should know and always comply with are the following:

1. Be sure that his property is properly registered, which includes houses, apartments and rooms. This applies although he rents only one room.

2. That he cannot increase his rent for any reason without first filing a petition with the Rent Office and obtaining its approval. Any increase by a landlord without first doing this makes him liable for a refund of the excess rent, a treble charge, and criminal prosecution.

3. When he changes tenants to always have the new tenant sign the back of the landlord's copy of the registration and to file with the Rent Office a Change in Tenancy oFrms.

4. That there are only eight grounds on which rent can be increased.

5. That there are only 6 grounds on which a tenant can be evicted.

6. That it is unlawful for the landlord to receive or the tenant to pay more than the Maximum Rent.

7. That the rent on all dwelling units, except those rented after March 1, 1942 are frozen at the rent of March 1, 1942 and that no increase can be made in such rent except by the Rent Office. That all dwelling units rented after March 1, 1942 must be registered at the first rent charged, which is the Maximum Rent until changed by the Rent Office.

SNAPPY FACTS ABOUT RUBBER

Of the 123,000 communities in the United States, 54,000 have no rail connection. They depend on rubber tires for their existence and their contacts with other communities. They rely solely on buses, trucks and passenger cars.

Reduction of the national average mileage of passenger cars to 5,400 miles a year through rationing has proved an important factor in rubber conservation. An idea of how this mileage is regulated will be understood when it is known that 55 per cent of the country's cars are operated on "A" gas ration books alone; about 25 per cent have "B," and 20 per cent have "C" books for supplementary supplies.

New Guinea Is Nice—to Visit

By Charles Pearson

(WNU Feature—Through special arrangement with Collier's Weekly.)

New Guinea isn't exactly a resort but it is far more habitable now than it was before the Uncle Sam Improvement company went to work on it. The air corps' flying boxcars have hauled in everything from tractors to hairpins and continue to haul in more all the time. Air strips have made it possible for planes to get to a lot of formerly inaccessible places. One run that used to take 35 days, now takes 35 minutes. Back home when something like a road had to be built you'd see surveyors, inspectors and blueprints in a huddle for days. Here they just go out and build the road.

All civilians have been evacuated and traffic is strictly military. There's one exception: an old, faded blue sedan with the top gone and fenders rusted away. A Port Moresby resident gave it to one of the soldiers after it had been hit by bomb fragments, and the soldier fixed it up. His biggest problem was fitting it with a salvaged truck radiator. Since there is no place to go on the island he uses it in an official capacity during the day. At night he carries buddies to motion pictures at other camps.

Always Wet.

The dampness is perpetual. After all sorts of experiments to combat it the army finally is moving up on stilts and into trees. Platforms are built of hard wood and floored with split bamboo. Pyramidal tents are erected on the platforms. You reach the front door by climbing up a ladder. The ever-necessary air-raid trench is built somewhere underneath, which makes the trench reasonably dry. In the past, G.I.'s who couldn't swim came close to drowning while sweating out Jap night raids. This way you have only lizards and centipedes to worry about.

Except for those who live in Port Moresby, the natives parade around lightly clad. Gals generally wear what amounts to the equivalent of an old pen wiper. Children get by with strings of beads. These natives are generally always without bracelets, trinkets or charms of any sort because souvenir-happy Yanks have bought them all. Until the department of agriculture banned grass skirts from import into the United States an acre or so of grass went down every day to build hay dresses for the little girls back home.

One unanswered question is whether the natives are more curious about the strange ways and belongings of the newcomers or whether it's vice versa.

Native Cooking.

If you're not around at chow time you're just not going to be fed because there is no place where you could possibly eat. A couple of air force boys, on one of those rare things, a day off, went fishing and forgot about chow time. One of them figured it might not be a bad idea to go back through the near-by native village and try to mooch a meal. It was easier than they had figured. The boss man said: "You have kaikai," which is one way of saying, "Will you hang around and put the nosebag on with us?" The meal turned out to be a four-course dinner, starting out with some stalks of sweet cane, followed by coconut meat and bananas, which had been wrapped in leaves and roasted. For no good reason at all the latter tasted like potatoes. The last course could not be identified. It came out of the community pot, but it was reported to be good.

These natives eat only one meal a day, but it's so big they spend the evenings sitting around groaning and massaging swollen bellies with coconut oil. Incidentally, natives remove the outside husk of a coconut with a sharpened stick in some few seconds. It takes a soldier 25 minutes if he has an ax, a screwdriver and a jungle knife.

Japanese wreckage has been put to some local use. Bayonets have been cut down to throwing knives for the popular pastime of tossing at cardboard targets on which is plastered Tojo's puss. Shell cases have been cut down to ash trays. Natives use Jap ammo pouches for handbags.

Husband Is Boss.

Many a sergeant who gives orders now, but knows that when the war is over his wife will give them, looks with admiration upon the native men who sit around while the gals do more work per capita than army mules. Everybody works but father.

New Guinea has been made habitable and it probably is as good a place to fight a war from as any. But, in the average dogface's opinion, if Manhattan was only worth $24, New Guinea isn't worth two cents. It's a nice place to visit but no place to live.

Kathleen Norris Says:

After the Wartime Wedding

Bell Syndicate—WNU Features.

"When you go out with other boys and they send you flowers, you're doing something that a wife isn't supposed to do."

By KATHLEEN NORRIS

WE'LL suppose that you've married your soldier—or sailor or marine or flyer, and that he's gone away into service somewhere. Now, what's the next step for you? What should you do to carry on while he's away, and to help build a new and better world when he comes home?

This question concerns more than a million women. Nearly two million war weddings have taken place in the last 18 months, and several hundred thousand brides, having been caught into the breathless, thrilling, emotional whirl of hurried marriage, are left today to wonder just how it is all coming out. Some of them are already bewildered and doubtful. It all seems unreal; the sudden appearance of the uniformed lover, the quick vows and brief kisses, the parting—perhaps for months, perhaps even for years.

Mary catches her breath when it is all over, and looks at her new ring and writes her new name, and wonders—

Yes, she wonders. For she doesn't really feel married. When sympathetic relatives and friends say flattering things of Tom she agrees eagerly; he's a pretty swell person, she says shyly. But is he? Does she really know anything about him?

Husband's Letters Surprise Wife.

Sometimes she doesn't. Sometimes his letters rather surprise her. Sometimes it surprises her and irks her when her mother gently suggests that she had better stop going about to dinners and dances with the old crowd.

"But good heavens, Mother," says Mary, flushing resentfully, "Tom said he wanted me to have a good time!"

"Yes, I know, darling. But your first thought has to be Tom, now. You see, Billy and Ben and Martin still like you very much, and they hardly know Tom, they may even resent his sweeping in here and carrying you off so suddenly. When you go out with other boys, and they send you flowers, you're doing something that a wife isn't supposed to do."

"So all my fun is over!" Mary says bitterly. At 21 she doesn't feel that her whole interest can be turned to Red Cross work, dishwashing at the canteen, knitting, good brisk walks, books and victory gardening. She is still the girl she was when Tom burst into her life a few months ago.

And at this point, if Mary goes idle and aimless, as so many young wives do, her marriage and perhaps the happiness of her whole lifetime are at stake. What she needs is work; useful and constructive work; something to keep her busy all day, bring her home tired at night, and give her something worthwhile about which to write to Tom.

Hundreds of young war-wives and anxious mothers write me about this problem. The other day a mother mailed me a printed list of the four questions that a certain New York clergyman, the Rev. Dr. Randolph Ray of New York, asks the couples that he marries. Do they really know each other, are they really in love, have they similar backgrounds or interests, and when they are reunited after the war, do they realize that they may feel themselves complete strangers?

More Than Love Needed.

But it seems to me these questions are not the really important ones. Happy marriages have taken place and have lasted for a lifetime, even when the answers to all these questions might be "No." That is, to all but "are you really in love?" However brief the illusion the answer to this would always be "Yes."

Being "in love" is indeed a brief illusion, and any marriage based wholly upon that is bound to bring disappointment. There has to be more than the irresistible drawing together, the ecstatic physical need for one another that we call "being in love."

And for the other three questions; well, we all know men and women who hadn't known each other well, who hadn't the same backgrounds or interests, who were perfectly aware that after a long separation they would seem strangers, and who yet have carried war marriages along from 1916 and 1917 to the proud days of grandparenthood and the Silver Wedding.

The essential to happy marriage, or happy living at all, lies in the word "character." Men and women of fine character will make a success of any marriage, or of any circumstances that follow marriage; weaklings won't. There is the situation in a nutshell.

The wise war bride of today will begin now to build for the time when her soldier comes home. She will realize that in this long separation she must hold him by her sweetness, her sympathy, her intelligent interest in what interests him; her growth in self-forgetfulness, service, faith and hope while he is away.

She will work. In defense work or in one of the services; in hospitals, canteens, Red Cross work rooms, machine shops, munition plants.

She will write. Chatty, affectionate letters; letters that show Tom the sort of woman she is. Letters that prove that she is not absorbed wholly in movies, good times, clothes. Letters that reveal her own developing soul.

Prepare for Future Together.

She will study. It doesn't matter what she studies, as long as she takes it seriously. If Tom was, or some day hopes to be, a chemist, a lawyer, an engineer, a photographer, a dentist, a teacher, her course is very clear. Let her enroll at the nearest college or business school or night school for the elementary course in his particular line. Then what she writes in her letters will be in his own tongue.

She will pull her weight at home. With dusting and dishwashing and answering the telephone and marketing, of course, and with the spiritual counterparts of these services as well; cheerfulness, hopefulness, merriment, courage.

For Tom may come home wavering slightly in his allegiance, too. He may remember Mary but vaguely; she was awfully cute, and her picture was keen, of course, but gosh, he can't remember—or else he never knew—what she really was like, or thought, or believed in.

WAR WIVES URGED TO KEEP BUSY

Work, constructive activity, study—these are the answers to the millions of war brides whose husbands are away. The wise bride of today realizes that she must prepare for the time when her soldier returns. Long separations—particularly if the marriage was hurried—must be counteracted by strong character, sympathy, and understanding. Wives who are running around with other men while their husbands are at war are not displaying the qualities which will lead them to a long, happy marriage. They should be working and building for the future.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Both Parties Study Election Trends; Higher Wage Scale Ends Coal Strike; Permit System May Regulate Marketing As Hog Shipments Flood Packing Plants

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysis and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

Released by Western Newspaper Union.

HOGS:
Heavy Receipts

With hog shipments flooding packing centers and many slaughterers reported shifting receipts to less congested yards, there were rumors that the government may impose a permit system to regulate marketing.

During a recent three-day period, packers received 574,000 hogs, almost 40,000 over the record October peak of the previous week. With packers in possession of from three to ten days' supplies, 250 to 270 pounders brought $14.40 in the Chicago yards, with weights below 180 pounds dropping from 15 cents to $1 under the $13.75 "floor."

Although the government had worked out a permit system for marketing last year, it did not apply it when heavy runs leveled off. According to experts, preference would be given to bigger hogs if the permit system were to be applied now.

Meat Production

Meat production for 1944 will total 24 billion pounds, the Bureau of Agricultural Economics reported, but increased government needs will cut civilian allocations.

More than 96 million hogs will be slaughtered in 1944, the BAE said, or three million more than this year. Because of smaller spring pig crops, however, next fall's marketings should drop below current levels.

Despite record slaughterings in 1943, cattle on farms should number about 80 million head January 1. Because of the feed situation, total cattle fed should slide below 1943 levels in the corn belt and other areas, BAE said.

Because of a shortage of ewes and labor, the 1944 lamb crop should be one to two million head smaller than this year, with slaughter also dropping. Butchering of sheep at 1943 levels would seriously deplete supplies by 1945.

ELECTIONS:
GOP Trend

With the election of Republican Simeon S. Willis as governor of Kentucky, the GOP swept through all recent elections to strengthen indications of a swing in the political pendulum.

In New York, Republican Joe R. Hanley amassed a majority of 348,000 votes to win the lieutenant-governorship from Democrat Lieut. Gen. William N. Haskell. Should Governor Tom Dewey decide to make the presidential race in 1944, Party-man Hanley will fill his shoes.

Governor of New Jersey during World War I, Republican Walter Edge ran up a majority of 128,000 votes to win the office again during World War II, besting labor-backed Democrat Vincent Murphy.

Republicans maintained their 62-year control of Philadelphia with the election of Republican Bernard Samuel for mayor over White House favorite and Democrat William Bullitt by 64,000 votes.

Said GOP National Chairman Harrison Spangler: "The light of the New Deal has flickered out." Retorted Democratic National Chairman Frank C. Walker: "I read no national trend whatsoever in . . . the . . . results."

COAL STRIKE:
Agreement Reached

John L. Lewis' 460,000 soft and hard coal miners were ordered back to their jobs following agreement on new wage conditions between the United Mine Workers' steely chief and Secretary of the Interior Harold

L. Ickes, acting on behalf of the government which again took over the pits when a serious strike threatened.

Bypassing the War Labor board which had consented only to a wage increase of $1.12½ daily, Lewis and Ickes worked out a formula boosting the bituminous miners' daily take to $1.50. Under the terms, the work day would be extended to 8½ hours, with miners compensated for the average of 45 minutes of underground travel time, but with their lunch time chopped from 30 to 15 minutes.

Anthracite miners will receive 70 cents more daily, 37.8 cents more by sacrificing 15 minutes of their 30 minutes lunch time, and 32.2 cents more as a result of a previous WLB award.

ITALY:
Line Sags

With Generals Clark and Montgomery bringing their full pressure to bear on the western and central sectors of the Germans' Massico ridge mountain line, the Nazis began to slowly give ground.

As they drew back along the west coast, they planted extensive mines and dynamited and blocked off roads, impeding the advance of pursuing Allies.

Smashing through during the night, British troops captured Isernia in the center. By so doing, Montgomery's Tommies cut the Nazis' forward east-west supply road, forcing them to use other routes behind the mountains.

SOUTHWEST PACIFIC:
Smash Jap Squadron

The battle to clear the enemy from the northern Solomons was on.

U. S. troops were pouring ashore at Rekata bay on Bougainville island. In darkness and rain, reconnaissance reported the approach of a strong Jap naval squadron to resist the American landings. U. S. squadrons headed north for the fight.

Ninety minutes of tense maneuvering was followed by two hours of fighting. Toll: One Jap cruiser and four destroyers sunk. U. S. loss: Damage and casualties.

Their footing secure, U. S. troops pressed inland on Bougainville. At the Japs' great base of Rabaul to the west, U. S. fliers dropped hundreds of bombs, with Allied headquarters claiming 100,000 tons of enemy shipping sunk or damaged.

HIGHLIGHTS . . . in the week's news

ENTERPRISE: A Michigan farmer, Frank Barron of Delta county, had about given up hope of raising anything on an eight-acre patch that lay under water until midsummer. His county agent suggested that Canadian purple top rutabagas might mature before frost. Barron sowed two crops and has harvested five tons to the acre, worth $70 at $14 a ton.

REFRIGERATORS: New refrigerators again may be made about the middle of next year, Office of Civilian Requirements officials say, after considering results of a survey showing the serious need in millions of homes. There is a demand right now for five million refrigerators and four million washing machines. Only about a million of each will be manufactured at best next year.

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

CURRENT EVENTS BAFFLE NEWS READER

WASHINGTON. — The strikes, wage actions and economic debates from the labor and food subsidy fronts must seem wholly beyond the understanding of even a well-informed news reader.

In truth, some developments are beyond the full understanding of the participants who are splitting statistical hairs and pulling political ones. The controlling forces behind the developments, however, can be set forth with an undeniable assurance which should enable readers to understand the implications of current news.

A real national economic crisis has arisen from the campaign of labor leaders to break the loose economic bounds fixed by the administration on wages and prices. The unauthorized coal strikes, the threatened railroad strike, and similar developments must be traced to that labor initiative.

The seriousness of the situation apparently is not fully understood. Nor has the public been informed of the depth of White House perplexity in trying to find compromise solutions.

The White House plan, however, is clearly discernible between recent developments. The Vinson decision against a full eight cents an hour rail increase to non-operating employees and the War Labor board split decision (7 to 5) in the Illinois coal contract granting a possible $10 a week raise, show the administration is ready to bend, if not officially break the ceilings of the Little Steel formula.

But it obviously wants to hold down the break to a point that will not again throw prices into any higher inflationary ground than necessary.

At the same time, its talented mobilizer Jimmy Byrnes is soft-shoeing his way around inside congress trying to get some arrangement for continuance of the Commodity Credit corporation food subsidies which will make the consumer and wage earner think prices are not as high as they are, by making the treasury stand some of the increase.

In short, the White House method is to compromise at whatever negotiable point it can find, in order to stave off another general wage and price increase. Weeks will be required to work it out, if it can be worked out, and the effectiveness of the results cannot even be guessed.

The crisis has war and political aspects as well as economic significance.

Coal production already has broken down to the point where suffering in many localities can be expected this winter. Production initiative was disturbed long before the recent crisis by the fact that sons and friends of miners were able to find other war work paying higher wages.

Then, also, the railroad brotherhoods are a powerful group, which usually gets what it wants. A rail strike obviously cannot be allowed in view of war necessity, even if it is voted.

All this agitation is, of course, being used by Byrnes to frighten congress into a compromise on a food subsidy, but apparently without much effect.

Even if Mr. Roosevelt's compromise plan is successful, it probably will lead the nation into higher inflationary ground, but apparently he hopes the ground will be beclouded so as not to scare anyone. Also, such negotiated decisions must be temporary.

Both labor leaders and farm leaders apparently justify their existence by planned successive campaigns to increase wages and better conditions without end. Their organizational setups are such that they cannot afford to take a national economic viewpoint—or accept one which conflicts with theirs.

Nor have they overlooked the fact that a critical presidential election is in the offing next year, having recently modified their national political pledges at their conventions to the point of practically inviting the President to fish for their votes if he wants them—and to use bigger and better bait.

An overall, arbitrary freezing of both prices and wages at the outset of this war (as Baruch demanded) might have obviated the existing difficulties. But with a policy of negotiation and adjustment having proceeded as far as it has, no one seems to be able even to suggest a wholly satisfactory or guaranteed solution.

A WORLD 'POLICE FORCE'

The whole international police force notion dropped almost entirely out of the senate debate. Even New Dealing Senator Pepper, who only a few months back, was talking about a world state and an international army, did not bring up the first subject and conceded that an international force was a matter of future discussion a long way off.

This enabled critical Senator Van Nuys to say—and rightly—that the Connally resolution did not promise such a force. The idea seems dead.

Government Needs Reports On U. S. Holdings Abroad

Form TFR-500 Supplies Valuable Information Concerning American Stake in Foreign Lands, Aids Reconstruction.

By BAUKHAGE
News Analyst and Commentator.

WNU Service, Union Trust Building, Washington, D. C.

When Paratrooper Jones landed "plop" in the midst of a field he had never heard of in a country he had only read about in books, he was able to lead his comrades direct to a certain building whose purpose, importance, construction and contents, almost down to the last nut and bolt, were all known in detail by the American high command. Paratrooper Jones knew just where to get to the point he wanted to leave his dynamite and General Smith, at the headquarters, knew exactly the damage that would result to the enemy when that dynamite went off.

Neither would have had that information if a worried banker in Bingville, U. S. A., hadn't painstakingly filled out Form TFR-500 which the treasury department had sent him.

The information asked for concerned American investments in foreign lands, and the information the government got back made it possible for it to get the detailed blue prints of the factory that Jones blew up from the American firm which had built it and, in this case, the construction engineer who had bossed the job.

The function of these annoying TRF-500's which have already located American investments in 102 countries, the largest single one of which is seven million dollars and the smallest forty dollars, serves other exceedingly useful, if not as dramatic, purposes.

Other Functions

One government official pointed out to me another important function this information plays in non-military wartime activities. He said:

"The more complete information the government has on the total American stake abroad, the more successful will be the efforts of our forces on the fighting fronts, the more quickly will the Allied Military Government be able to restore civilian activities in reoccupied areas, the better equipped our representatives will be to safeguard the interests of the American people during the peace table discussions, and the sounder will be the working out of postwar policies in the field of international economic relationships.

"This survey of American investments abroad is an instrument of vital importance to the future of this country. Most other world powers have long since collected similar information. They not only know the holdings of their own nationals all over the world, but their relations with those of other countries. Their plans are well formulated to protect and develop these investments. Our government believes we should not be less well informed."

This official had a particular reason in discussing this situation with me.

First, he wanted to stimulate the people who had received Form TFR-500 in giving as complete a report as possible.

Second, he desired wide publicity in the hope that other American citizens, individuals, corporations, executives of estates, trustees of charitable organizations who might be able to furnish the information desired, would get in touch with the treasury department and turn it over to the government.

Rehabilitation

Aside from its value to military men, the facts are exceedingly important to the Allied officials who are administering rehabilitation in occupied countries. If they know about a plant that has certain production facilities or trained people who can be used in producing what they desire, it greatly helps their work. It has proved in Sicily, and will prove in Italy, of great value to the Allied administrators to get information concerning the citizens so that they can pick those who are of known non-Fascist leanings to cooperate with them.

The information also, of course, is exceedingly valuable to many of the government departments.

Claims for Damage

Another thing that the state department is called upon to do is to assist citizens in getting back their property in countries that have been affected by the war. Also there is the question of claims for damage to American property.

There are more than 100 people in the state department alone who are now working on postwar plans. One of the most important phases of this work is the reopening of trade with the war areas as well as the rest of the world. Of course, the terms under which the trade is reopened may depend on the industrial possibilities of the various areas; and how soon the controls of foreign exchange can be dropped will depend, in a large part, on the extent of the U. S. and other foreign holdings of the obligations of the country in question. All this will affect our exporters here as well as American interests in foreign countries.

The treasury department, as you know, has drawn up the White plan for international stabilization; the British government has the Keynes plan.

None of these projects, treasury officials said to me, which vitally affect the postwar movements of trade and capital, can be intelligibly planned and certainly cannot be put into effect without adequate knowledge of the value and type of United States interests and the number and character of the persons having those interests.

Many other important business negotiations such as private loans to foreign countries, direct investments by American corporations, furthering the good neighbor policy, will be affected by the information in the government's hands. For instance, if the government can say definitely that in a certain area there is very little capital invested in a certain type of enterprise and it is known such an enterprise might be enlarged there, the government might be able to encourage companies with foreign experience to develop such an enterprise.

The Moscow Conference

Washington correspondents for the press associations and some of the country's metropolitan dailies as well as the network broadcasters lived on needles and pins for more than a day and a half before the news of the agreements reached at Moscow were released.

There have been many bad leakages in advance of important international events recently. The state department, the Office of War Information and the Office of Censorship have done their best to protect American newspapers and radio against these violations of premature release of important stories involving foreign countries. The leaks usually have come through foreign officials who whisper a few hints to some of their newsmen friends. They also sometimes occur when news dispatches, radioed in advance for later release, are picked up by the enemy or are divulged in neutral countries.

Every effort was made to prevent such leaks in connection with the Moscow conference. The question of safety of the lives of British and American negotiators was involved. It was feared that if the fact that the conference was over was publicly revealed, the enemy might be on the watch to shoot down the planes carrying Secretary of State Hull and British Foreign Minister Eden and their parties.

Some of us who were affected, learned on the Saturday before the Monday of their official release that copies of the agreements had reached the state department earlier. We had guessed as much since the President commented on the success of the agreement the day before in his press and radio conference. We were told we would receive copies as far in advance as possible which meant that someone representing the various news agencies and networks had to be on duty day and night. Finally, the word came Monday morning that the messages were available and they were given out at ten o'clock for release at one o'clock. We, therefore, had three hours in which to digest the five separate documents.

Fortunately for me, the one o'clock release made it possible for me to report the story a minute and 19 seconds after it was given out on my one o'clock network broadcast.

Hoyle-Granberry Marriage Right Performed In Beautiful Church Wedding

In a ceremony that was beautiful in its simplicity, Miss Nancy Nelson Granberry, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Granberry, of Grenada, became the bride of Sgt. William Vinton Hoyle, son of Mr. and Mrs. Numa Reid Hoyle, of Newport News, Va., Tuesday afternoon, November 16, at 4:30 o'clock, the ceremony taking place at the First Presbyterian Church with Rev. C. A. Pharr officiating.

Church decoranons were of beautiful white giant California chrysanthemums and Oregon ferns arranged in three floor baskets. Antique silver candelabra bearing gleaming white tapers flanked the scene and cast a soft glow over the bridal group. Other greenery was of Oregon huckleberry, lending a graceful note in the choir loft and at the base of the pulpit.

Miss Virginia Echols presided at the organ and was assisted with the musical program by Misses Sue Vandiver and Helen Horton. Miss Echols played as her first selection Fritz Kreisler's "Caprice Viennois."

Miss Vandiver sweetly sang "Sweetest Story Ever Told" accompanied by Miss Echols at the organ. Other organ music was "Evening Star" nd Liebestraum by Liszt.

Miss Helen Horton sang "Because," accompanied by Miss Echols at the organ.

The bridal party entered to the music of "Lohengrin's Wedding March" and Mendelsshon's march was used for the recessional.

Ushers were Sgts. John O'Malley, Cecil Coe and James Richard Hendricks, and Cpl. John William English, from the Medical Detachment at Station Hospital, Camp McCain, Miss.

The groom entered with Rev. Pharr and George Granberry, Jr., who served as best man.

Lovely Dorothy Thomas, of Birmingham, Ala., and cousin of the bride, served as bridesmaid and was gowned most becomingly in a gold crepe dress which featured sequin trim and corsage of talisman rose buds. Her small has was of gold hued velvet and gloves and slippers of brown suede.

Mrs. Granberry, mother of the bride wore a handsome black suit and hat with corsage of gardenias, and Mrs. Hoyle, the groom's lovely mother from Virginia wore a black crepe dress with gardenia corsage. Miss Echols wore black with red rose corsage. Miss Horton wore blue jersey with nail head trim and corsage of talisman roses and Miss Vandiver wore a lace trimmed black sheer model with a lovely corsage of pink carnations.

The lovely bride entered with her father, who gave her in marriage. She wore a handsome Capri model of soldier blue with white blouse. Her corsage was a white orchid and her only ornament was a diamond circlet heirloom belonging to her maternal grandmother. Her chic brown hat was feather trimmed and her gloves and slippers were of brown suede. She used a fur coat to compete her costume for traveling.

The bride is a graduate of Grenada High School and an honor graduate at Mississippi School and College for Womel at Columbus. She was president of the student government during her senior year, a member of Gamma Sigma Epilon, National Chemistry Fraternity and Beta Beta Beta, National Honor Fraternity. She held the position as Technician at the Clinic at Cleveland, Miss., and more recently at Station Hospital, Camp McCain, Miss.

Sgt. Hoyle is a graduate of University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, Columbia. He was active in the Carolina Play Makers, a member of the student council and Interdormatory Council. Since graduation he held a position as member of the Purchasing Department of Newport News Ship Building Dry Dock, at Newport News, Va. He is now with the Medical Detachment at Station Hospital, Camp McCain, Miss.

The young couple left immediately after the ceremony for a short honeymoon. They will reside in Grenada.

REHEARSAL PARTY

The lovely home of Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton Graves on Snider Street was the scene of a rehearsal party honoring the Hoyle-Granberry bridal group Monday evening following rehearsal at the Presbyterian Church.

Miss Tommye Hamilton greeted the guests as they arrived, and Mr. and Mrs. Graves presented the honor guests to the twenty odd friends present.

The reception rooms were charmingly decorated. The beauty of a huge bouquet of red radiance roses was reflected in the mantle mirror, and California golden giant chrysanthemums arranged on two occasional tables completed the decorations in the living room. The dining room featured a pink and white motif. Lovely arranged chrysanthemums of white and pink filled the vases. On the lace draped dining table was placed a large white wedding cake decorated with tiny bride and groom tableau. The after dinner coffee service was placed before Mrs. Edith Brown Hays who poured coffee. The buffet, decorated with pink and white mums held a huge crystal tray of individual servings of heart-shaped Charlotte russe of a lovely pink color, and silver compates of salted nuts.

Assisting in the dining room were Miss Isabel Bailey of Grenada and Miss Stevenson of Camp McCain.

Twenty-four guests were present.

MRS. MEEK ENTERTAINS FOR BRIDE-ELECT

Evergreen, the anti bellum home of Mrs. Thomas H. Meek, was the scene Thursday evening of a delightfully planned shower given in honor of Miss Nancy Nelson Granberry, bride-elect of Sgt. William Vinton Hoyle, of Newport News, Va.

On this occasion Miss Granberry wore a black trousseau frock with corsage of white rose buds.

The guests were graciously welcomed upon their arrival by Mr. and Mrs. Meek. Assisting in the dining room were Mrs. George Granberry, mother of the honoree and Mrs. Hamilton Graves.

The handsome living room, with its rich antique furnishings and many imported relics, was further enhanced by lacing bouquets of large California chrysanthemums of golden yellow color on table and mantle.

The color scheme in the dining room was bridal white. The banquet table was draped with venetian point lace and held as a floral center piece a Lique bowl filled with white carnations, small white mums and white roses all interspersed with ferns. A matching vase of Lique held another arrangement of identical flowers. The color motif of white and green influenced the service in the dining room and in the dainty sandwiches and cookies.

Mrs. Granberry poured coffee from the silver service, and Mrs. Hamilton Graves assisted the guests as they were served buffet style, chicken salwere served buffet style, chicken salad in lettuce cups, served from a huge sandwiches, cookies and dainty white mints which proved delightful.

Little Patricia McElwrath showered the bride by presenting a white trimmed basket filled with lovely gifts for the bride's kitchen service. The hostess' gift at this time was a rose hued satin comfort.

Approximately twenty-two guests enjoyed Mr. and Mrs. Meeks' hospitality.

DINNER FOR TWELVE

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Thomas Gerard were hosts to the Hoyle Granberry bridal party on Saturday evening when a beautifully planned turkey dinner was served buffet style to twelve guests. There was one small tabe arranged for the bride's parents Mr. and Mrs. George Granberry and grandmother, Mrs. B. F. Thomas and Mrs. N. R. Hoyle, of Newport News, Va., mother of the groom to be. The other guests served their plates from the dining table and found seats in the spacious living room.

Yellow and white chrysanthemums were used effectively in the reception rooms and to center the beautifully arranged dining table where large trays of delicious food, crystal and gleaming silver were placed.

Eastland Joins Growing Force Defending Poll Tax

Senator Eastland of Mississippi and Senator McClellan of Arkansas Saturday condemned the attemt to pass anti-poll tax legislation, describing it as having its origin with the Communist Party, and pledging themselves to resort to every possible device to prevent its passage.

The senators charged more friction would result in other states than in the South, where race relations are more agreeable, and the purpose of the measure is to invade the rights of states and eventually destroy the Electoral College.

Not A Second To Lose

(From The Commercial Appeal)

If there is one agency in this country which knows most accurately the enemy's strength, it is Military Intelligence. To know is its chief function, for if it fails to know, a war could be lost.

Alarmed by the fantastic wishful thinking which has spread over the country relative to an early end to the war, Maj. Gen. George V. Strong, capable chief of Military Intelligence, is endeavoring to overcome this utterly dangerous attitude by revealing the facts of the enemy strength.

He plainly, bluntly warns that Germany and Japan are still so strong, still so well stocked and situated, that if we take things too easy "we may find that our opportunity for victory" has vanished.

That is a terrible thought, and if it doesn't stop this growing apathy and cock-sureness cold, just where it is, nothing on earth will stop it and the victory will, indeed, vanish.

General Strong goes a little further than that; he warns that if the victory does vanish it will be permanently. There won't be any opportunities to regrasp it or to make up for the hours and days thrown away now.

Here are the facts, as the chief of intelligence produces them:

Fighting manpower. The Navis have more than 300 well-trained, well-equipped divisions, or approximately 4,500,000 combat soldiers.

Production manpower: In 1939 the Nazi Reich had 23,000,000 persons available for employment in vital war factories. Now it has 35,000,000.

Food: Supplies still far better than in the World War.

New Weapons: German inventiveness has turned up many new models of tanks, self-propelled guns, rocket guns and some other equipment better than the Allies.

Oil: Despite decreases in stocks, Germany has more than enough.

Raw materials: Germany is in excellent position on steel, heavy outputs of coal, and rubber on production soon to meet almost all needs for 202,000 tons of synthetic a year.

The chief of intelligence admits that Germany's air power is her weakest element, yet aircraft production in the Reich increased 24 percent during the first half of 1943.

He has dealt chiefly with Germany because it is Germany whose defeat must first be accomplished and whose elimination foolish Americans are going around betting will be achieved before Christmas.

All the facts and figures presented here are those of a responsible General Staff officer. They are not The Commercial Appeal's, for we make no guesses as to when or where the war is going to end. We do believe that there are Allied military leaders who do have a fairly accurate estimation, and General Strong is one.

The war must still be won the "hard way"—the slow, hard way of Allied ground forces investing the enemy's chief stronghold and coming to grips with the veteran forces of Hitler's army.

We can wish and guess and bet all we want to, but it won't bring the victory one step nearer.

As General Strong so well points out, though, and if we don't want to lose all on which so much sweat and blood is being expended we will get rid of it before it is too late.

There are still no seconds to be lost in this war undertaking.

That Nagging Backache

May Warn of Disordered Kidney Action

Modern life with its hurry and worry, irregular habits, improper eating and drinking—its risk of exposure and infection—throws heavy strain on the work of the kidneys. They are apt to become over-taxed and fail to filter excess acid and other impurities from the life-giving blood.

You may suffer nagging backache, headache, dizziness, getting up nights, leg pains, swelling—feel constantly tired, nervous, all worn out. Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination.

Try Doan's Pills. Doan's help the kidneys to pass off harmful excess body waste. They have had more than half a century of public approval. Are recommended by grateful users everywhere. Ask your neighbor!

Telephone Installations Affected by Wartime Conditions

Because of the shortage of raw materials, it becomes more difficult as the war progresses for the telephone company to fill requests for telephone service. So unless you qualify as an essential user—one who is essential in the discharge of responsibility for public health, welfare or security—you may experience difficulty in getting telephone service.

If you plan to request the installation of new service or if you now have service and plan to move, a reasonable time may be necessary to determine if service can be made available. For further information, please communicate with our business office.

The Eighty-Seventh

As we travel along life's highway, we come in contact with many people each day,—and although the days seem alike, there are no two days exactly alike, neither are there any two contacts exactly alike.

What we are trying to say, is that with every contact no matter how trival or unimportant it may seem, we are making an impression upon some one's memory which will be just like a phonograph record and can be played any time they wish to call it up.

WE HAVE TRIED

Yes, we have done our dead level best to make only good memory records with all of the thousands of contacts we have had, and although there has been times when our good intentions, patience, physical strength and endurance have been taxed to capacity with crowded conditions, rationing, shortage of help and merchandise, we have endeavored to keep our feet on the ground and create only good and lasting impressions, of which we wouldn't be ashamed to meet again farther on down the road as the years go by.

YOU HAVE TRIED

As we meditate this morning, we are thinking of the EIGHTY-SEVENTH DIVISION, which has been in our midst for the past several months, with its splendid officers, men and their families and among whom we hope and feel that we can number our friends by the thousands. . . . We are thinking of the many pleasant contacts we have had and we know the day will come when you and your families will go to other sections for awhile, but we sincerely hope that when the LIGHTS GO ON AGAIN ALL OVER THE WORLD, that you will decide to return to Grenada and live amongst us as friends and neighbors. You and your families have been just wonderful and you have left a mighty fine impression upon us and our hope and prayer is, that the day will soon arrive when you and your loved ones can live your lives in peace and every man and woman can look up to the blue canopy of Heaven and thank ALMIGHTY and ETERNAL GOD for Freedom.

This message of good will is not an advertisement, but we are signing the store's name to it, as some of you do not know us except by our store name.

A typical illustration of the sudden sweep of righteous belligerency which suddenly transformed America into a hard hitting war machine is a group of former housewives, stenographers, and feminine factory workers who guard the Allis-Chalmers supercharger plant in Milwaukee, Wis. Before Pearl Harbor, these women probably would have been shocked at the sight of a gun. Now they are crack shots with pistols, shotguns, and tommy guns, as they and other patriotic women guard our vital war plants.

HONESTY IN ALL THINGS

LESSON TEXT—Exodus 20:15; Leviticus 19:11, 13; Luke 19:1-10, 45, 46.
GOLDEN TEXT—Thou shalt not steal.—Exodus 20:15.

Honesty seems to be so obviously right that one might expect it always and everywhere—if bitter experience had not indicated the opposite to be true.

As a matter of fact, dishonesty has become so common that a person who is strictly honest is a bit of a novelty. Some even think he is peculiar.

Under such circumstances the Christian needs to be vigilant lest he also accommodate his own ideas of honesty and begin to justify little evasions rather than being absolutely upright.

The teaching of Scripture on this matter is very plain.

I. Honesty and Fair Dealing (Exod. 20:15; Lev. 19:11, 13).

The very commandment against stealing implies that men have a right to that which they have made, earned, or saved. If no one had property rights there could be no stealing. Some of our modern isms deny such rights, but their reasoning is clearly not biblical or Christian.

"Thou shalt not steal" forbids every kind of theft, and the passages from Leviticus indicate that this includes more than robbery or ordinary stealing.

It relates to every kind of false dealing with another, such as oppression or the withholding of just wages. That, too, is stealing in God's sight.

Perhaps we ought to be more specific and apply the truth to our own day. Stealing includes such things as loafing on one's job, "borrowing" money from the cash drawer, taking goods from the stock with which one is working, stealing another man's sermon and preaching it as one's own, "lifting" material out of another man's book without credit, contracting debts which one can never pay, using false weights and measures, adulterating food or other material, "watering" milk for sale, selling worthless stock, dodging taxes or lying to the tax assessor, or using a slug instead of a nickel in the telephone to escape proper payment.

One might add gambling (which is taking another man's property by skill or by chance), making an unduly large profit on the labor of another, making money out of the sorrows and failures of others, etc. To be honest means to be fair—and that has broad implications.

II. Honesty and Restoration (Luke 19:1-10).

The reality and thoroughness of Zacchaeus' conversion was indicated by his willingness to restore all the money he had unjustly (but legally, note that!) taken from his fellow citizens—and that in fourfold measure.

Insofar as it is possible to do so, the honest person will make right any known injustice. To be right with God must mean that we are to be right with men. The testimony of many Christians could be presented to show that they have only entered upon real peace and usefulness as they have made consistent effort to right every wrong, to pay every debt.

Often such actions open opportunities for Christian testimony and point others to the redemption in Christ, which makes a man live right as well as talk right.

III. Honesty and Religion (Luke 19:45, 46).

One might think it unnecessary to urge honesty upon religious folk. They ought to be honest. But here we see in sharp contrast to the quick honesty and restitution of Zacchaeus, the stubborn disobedience and dishonesty of the priests in the temple. Jesus had already cleansed the temple of the traffic in money-changing and the sale of animals for sacrifice practiced there (see John 2:13-17). On that occasion He rebuked them because they made His Father's house "a house of merchandise."

Had they known the change of heart of a converted Zacchaeus they would have heeded His admonition. But they did not believe in Christ and went on with their ungodly desecration of the temple area until it became "a den of thieves" (v. 46).

What happened so long ago needs application to our present day. So says the quotation from the "Lesson Commentary" which we have used before that we repeat it now.

Speaking of "the goings on in our own churches" the writer says, "Is a church honest when it assumes obligations that it cannot meet, and is then forced to use all sorts of questionable means to raise money for the benefit of the church? Is a church honest when it turns a building consecrated to the worship of God into a restaurant or a theater, Is a church honest that turns its pulpit into a lecture platform for the discussion of current events or the review of popular books or plays?"

The Rubber Shortage is behind us but the Tire Shortage is still here!

Less than two years ago America faced as frightening a situation as any country at war ever faced.

Unless something was done, and done quickly, we would soon be without rubber.

And without rubber, no plane could fly, no tank could move, no ship could sail, no truck could roll, people could not get to work, materials could not move to and from plants.

That was the situation the Government and the rubber companies had to lick inside of two years if America was to stay in the war.

Did the "impossible" really happen?

Let's see what you think. Right now, there is nearly enough rubber to meet our essential needs.

Today, this threat to American victory is merely an unpleasant memory, because Government, the Rubber Director, and a group of industries—rubber, petroleum, chemical, alcohol—working together, compressed into less than two years a job that would normally have taken a dozen years. But . . .

Because the public saw huge synthetic rubber plants shoot up almost over night, and heard that synthetic rubber was in large-scale production, they figured the tire headache was almost over.

Now—a warning!

This is the situation today—the rubber supply crisis is past, but the long predicted and anticipated tire shortage is with us.

Why is this so, when thousands of tons of Government synthetic rubber are now being made?

Why is this so, when the rubber industry is producing a tremendous tonnage of rubber products and more airplane and truck tires than ever before?

Because, as the Baruch Committee foresaw—the fact that few tires could be made until we had our synthetic rubber supply well on the way, resulted in millions of tires going out of service without replacement—and those remaining have less mileage in them. Inventories of prewar tires are gone.

Because our military needs are way beyond anyone's anticipations.

Because the rubber companies must use a lot of their manpower and machines to make bullet-sealing gas tanks and hundreds of other rubber products for war, in addition to tires.

Because half of today's requirements are for heavy-duty, large-size truck, bus, combat, artillery, and airplane tires, requiring many, many times the labor and materials of peacetime needs . . . and finally . . .

Because the manpower shortage hangs over the tire industry as it does over all industry, and there are just too few hands for the job.

Straight from the shoulder

These problems will be licked when our enemies are licked. Meanwhile, we want to tell you frankly that unless you, and all tire-owners continue to make the preservation of tires a vital personal problem . . . our home-front transportation will break down and slow up the war production of America.

The way out is for you to conserve the tires you've got—stretch their life in every way you can.

How to make tires last longer

Do no unnecessary driving.

Live up to the government regulation—don't exceed 35 miles an hour.

Keep your tires inflated up to recommended pressure, and check them every week.

Avoid hitting holes in the road, or bruising your tires on curbs or stones. Don't start or stop suddenly. Slow down for sharp corners.

See that your wheels and axles are in line.

Switch your tires from wheel to wheel every five thousand miles, and have them inspected regularly for removal of foreign objects and repair of cuts.

And—most important of all—recap your tires as soon as they become smooth.

• • •

Though not all civilians will be able to get synthetic rubber tires in the near future, you may be one of those who will. Therefore, you should know . . . and remember . . . these facts:

FACTS ABOUT PASSENGER CAR TIRES

The synthetic rubber tire is not yet an improvement but it will keep your car rolling through the emergency.

In many respects, the new synthetic rubber tires are an unknown quantity.

How they would behave at the phenomenally high speeds of prewar days is purely academic. The patriotic citizen knows that high speeds wear out his treads far faster than the recommended speed of 35 miles per hour, and drives accordingly.

Under-inflation, driving over rough roads, and other abuses are bad for all tires—but today's evidence is that synthetic tires will stand less of these abuses than the tires you have been used to.

But, since these tires will be rationed to you in trust for the nation, it will be your duty to take every possible care of them, and to prevent misuse and abuse.

As we gain more experience with synthetic rubber tires, more and more things will become known about them, and the public will be kept informed.

If you use synthetic rubber tubes, be sure they are properly installed. They should be put into the tire, then inflated, deflated, and inflated again. And they should never be mounted on rusty rims.

FACTS ABOUT TRUCK AND BUS TIRES

On truck and bus tires, particularly in over-the-road, inter-city service, the situation is less satisfactory.

Truck and bus tires are operated under more severe conditions than passenger car tires. They are heavier, thicker—generate more heat. They are all too frequently overloaded, must travel on any kind of highway their work requires.

Again we'll be perfectly frank about it: synthetic truck and bus tires now built will not stand all the abuse that the prewar tire would take, especially overloading. Progress is being made every day—but overloading which damaged a prewar tire can ruin today's synthetic rubber tire.

The Tire Industry is bending every effort to solve the serious problems of furnishing satisfactory and sufficient tires to the truck and bus field.

But a serious threat still exists to our most vital transportation.

So remember this—while the treads of present truck and bus tires are vitally important, the carcasses of these tires have a value to our truck operators, and to the nation, that is beyond price. Unless these tires are made to last and last, there is almost certain to be a breakdown of truck service.

Every one of these tires must be recapped the very minute it needs it—before any damage is done to the carcass. Speeds must be cut down, especially on hot roads. Overloads must be eliminated. Proper inflation is a necessity.

Operators, garage men, drivers, all have a heavy responsibility that they cannot now avoid. These are straightforward statements. The warning must not go unheeded. A new tire warranty recognizes these conditions, but the real job is conservation!

A new warranty—

With conditions as they are, and synthetic rubber in its present stage of development, a new tire warranty has become necessary and has been adopted. It applies to all tires. Under its terms, injuries such as bruises, body breaks, cuts, snags, and heat failures, as well as tread wear are not subject to adjustment consideration.

Nor are injuries or failures which result from improper tire care or misuse or abuse. This includes failure as a result of overload, excess speed, improper inflation, or other non-defective conditions. Or when tires are used on rims not conforming to Tire and Rim Association Standards.

Remember—the tire industry, the Rubber Director, everyone is working together with all their energy, as they have from the outset, to keep America's wheels turning.

Do your part—take care of the tires you've got now!

TWENTIETH CENTURY CLUB

Mrs. Fred Lickfold, Jr., and Mrs. John Rundle were hostesses to the Twentieth Century Club, Tuesday, November 16th.

Mrs. G. W. Patty, a former member of the Club, now a resident of Meridian, Miss., sent the beautiful specimens of giant yellow and bronze chrysanthemums which graced the living room of Mrs. Lickfold, Jr. where the club held their program.

The subject for the afternoon was, "The Pacific Islands."

Mrs. H. O. Bland, in her pleasing manner, presented "Tempeski's" new book, "Thunder in Heaven." Its scene was laid in the Hawaiian Islands, and though fictionary, it brought many customs of educational value entwined therein.

One of our new public school teachers, lovely Miss May Evelyn Doggett, substituting for Mrs. H. L. Honeycutt, very capably presented our afternoon's subject, using Fallett's book "Ocean Outposts."

Her informative and discriptive talk covered thoroughly and in minute detail these Outposts, some of which our United States Army guards today, others we are fighting to gain.

This "Changing World" touches definitely Our Oceans forways and, as Miss Doggett remarked, "Who knows what will happen next in the Pacific Ocean?"

For the benefit of those interested, these books are on the shelves of our County Library in Grenada.

As a refreshment, the hostesses served delicious chocolate ice cream and white loaf cake. Besides Miss Doggett, the guest list included Mrs. F. R. Lickfold, the mother of the house hostess and Mrs. John J. Hardy.

Mr. L. S. McKnight, Tax Assessor for Grenada County is able to be up and to his office this week after sustaining painful injuries in the woods supervising some timber cutting that he is interested in, in Beat Five. The accident happened two weeks ago. His many friends will be glad to know he is improved and will soon be entirely well.

Mr. and Mrs. Spivey Kent, Mrs. Edith Hays, Ann and George Kent and Betty Barnhart spent Sunday in Coffeeville with Mrs. Woodall.

A nice card from Major and Mrs. Newham B. Bateman, Station Hospital, Camp Rucker, Ala., received this week in GCW office and these fine people wish to express their appreciation to their Grenada friends for the many kindnesses and courtesies shown them while here. Major Bateman was Surgeon at Camp McCain Station Hospital.

Lt. Fred Shaw, of Keesler Field visited his wife and baby in the home of their mother, Mrs. H. O. Thompson this week.

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Perry, Sr. their daughter, Mrs. O. R. Lilly and Betty, also Mrs. Spivey Kent and Miss Mary Hall spent Monday in Memphis.

Mrs. A. M. Mann has returned home from Memphis, where she visited her daughter in law, Mrs. Bill Mann and young grandson, Jan Androse, for ten days.

Pvt. P. C. Purdy, from Ephreta Field, Washington, visited his relatives here this week.

Mr. and Mrs. George Wagner, of Water Valley, have been notified that their son, Lieutenant Commander, George Andrew Wagner, U. S. Navy, is missing in action. The Wagner family has many Grenada friends who share their anxiety and grief.

Mrs. Sam Houston and little daughter, of Birmingham, have arrived in Grenada to visit until Christmas with their parents and grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Brown. They spent several days last week with Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Houston, at Water Valley.

Seen, Heard and Told By The Editor

Mr. Spurgeon Cook, of Grenada is here in the same hotel with us. He apparanely tries to be like the great preacher for whom he was named. He talks very pious.

One fellow said that if he owned Hell and Arkansas, he would live in Hell and rent out Arkansas. But I think Arkansas is OK.

It would pay Grenada folks to trade here, for everything is so much cheaper. The room I stay in here would cost at least $10.00 or $12.00 a week, but I get good meals in addition.

I hope Major Waite has not been doing any talking since I left. All I ever could get out of him was an attentive ear.

I saw in the GCW last week that Roy and W. E. Jackson, etc. had been goose hunting but nobody on South Street smelled any goose frying. Damned if I would not have stopped at Parsons and bought a goose, or did they take any guns?

Oh, me, I will now take a nap.

Mrs. Bell has a fine looking grandson.

It looks as if Judge Smith is going to run Judge Anderson ragged.

I met one fellow who came here 40 years ago, took 4 baths to cure his rheumatism, and is still here. Even the natives believe in this water.

If the government had not taken control, there's no telling what a poor devil would have to pay to be cured. Maybe F. D. R. will get around to regulating and running Hot Springs next.

I just MUST get around to see "bullface" King before I leave.

I have not seen a one-armed bandit yet.

I made a fellow chew up and swallow 2 aces and 2 kings the other night. He did not even salt them.

I hoep Ed Heath is getting to feel better.

Mississippi women may be as lazy as Hell, but they out-look these big-fannied dames here.

It costs money to stay here, so be sure to pay your subscription while I am away so that we can pay our bills on December 1.

I imagine Hot Springs and Grenada have about the same high percentage of hypocrites.

We want to thank each and every one for the kind deeds and acts of sympathy so beautifully administered to us during the recent illness and death of our husband and father.

Can Vitamins Change GRAY HAIR?

Impartial investigators have found vitamin Calcium Pantothenate of some value in changing gray hair, where a deficiency of this vitamin may have caused gray or graying hair.

For example, one test conducted by Good Housekeeping magazine on a number of people, showed 58% of those tested (all ages were included) had positive evidence of a return of some hair color.

Now thousands use GRAYVITA, which contains 10 mgm. of Calcium Pantothenate (the same amounts used in above tests) PLUS 450 U.S.P. units of B1, the vitamin necessary to healthy nerves. Try GRAYVITA. See what a difference it may make in the way you look. 30 day supply, $1.50; 100 day supply, $4.98.

DESTROYER-ESCORT BUILT IN 25 DAYS

NEW WORLD'S RECORD IN SHIP CONSTRUCTION

Beats World War I Destroyer Time of 45½ Days — Bethlehem Set Both Marks

Has Large Gun-Power for Both Offensive and Defensive Service; Equipped for Surface, Depth Bomb and Anti-Aircraft Combat

Destroyer-escort designed by U. S. Navy has wide range of fire-power and fast speed. DE Reynolds was built by Bethlehem-Hingham Shipyard in record time of 25 days.

Beating all prior records, the destroyer-escort Reynolds was completed and delivered November 3 to the U. S. Navy, by the Bethlehem-Hingham Shipyard just 25 days after keel laying.

The Reynolds is a hard-hitting, fighting unit with great fire-power and speed, a bigger, more powerful ship than the destroyer Reid, which held the previous production record of being built in 45½ days, during World War I. Bethlehem built both ships.

The Reynolds has terrific battle armament for surface, depth bomb, or anti-aircraft combat. Her main battery has guns mounted in three turrets which can revolve in a complete circle to follow a target, and can be fired by a trained crew with amazing accuracy and rapidity. Aft is a 40-mm. Bofors gun, each barrel capable of firing 120 rounds of 2-pound projectiles per minute. She has numerous 20-mm. Oerlikon machine guns with a potential fire-power of nearly 400 shells every 60 seconds. Also, along port and starboard rails aft of amidships are a flock of K-guns which can toss out the famous 300-pound "ash cans" which make it unhealthy for any submarine within hundreds of yards.

The Reynolds is, in fact, one of those powerful, swift, sea-panthers designed by the Navy to drive the Nazi subs from the Atlantic and protect American convoys. She can deliver a terrific curtain of fire effective at 2500 yards against air or surface targets. Like some of her sister ships, she is one of Uncle Sam's contributions to the British fleet.

The first group of ships in the destroyer-escort class were built in 302 days.

The next group in this class were built in 206 days.

Now the Reynolds has set the mark of 25 days.

And she is but one of hundreds of warships steaming out of the shipyards of America to speed the day of Victory.
